self contained 2 bed roomed apartment with intent to either murder or harm. The said man confidently introduced himself as Oucha’s colleague at work sending positive signal to family members who without hesitation allowed him to access the living room 5 metres from Oucha’s bedroom.

Armed with a pistol like object, he tactfully blocked the main entrance causing Oucha to apply intra- personal danger response technique which pushed him (Oucha) back to the bedroom and had the bedroom door locked within seconds. A case of threatening violence with intent to harm is recorded under SD 06/07/2010 at Kampala police.

However, at Safe Life Uganda, the news has been received with shock, shame and we herein give it adequate space and attention with focus on Oucha’s life style, and achievements.

Brief History of threats

At age 5 he was confronted by a huge and dangerous black Cobra at his village in Panyimur, the said cobra first fumed with annoyance and eager to bite but steadily cooled down and coiled itself on him giving Oucha to play with its neck without being harmed, an occurrence which has since stunned the community(ies).

At age 8, while with the mother harvesting cotton in the same Panyimur Village, Oucha was also coiled by a red snake which left without harming him. At age 28, at Namayiba Mukono District in Uganda, a black, furious cobra blocked Oucha's path while on Anti AIDS campaigns. He was saved when he pulled out a rosary and prayed for about 30 minutes till the snake cooled off and left Oucha safe. This has made our poet promise never to kill a snake which others believe is quite dangerous to human beings. In other words Oucha is harmless even to the most dangerous animals.

In June 2006, Oucha was abducted by a man Known as Mike who took him (Oucha) to one of the hills in Jinja to be sacrificed to the gods. Unfortunately the gods found Oucha a very innocent Man who did not measure to the sacrificial torture. The gods therefore rejected Oucha. He helplessly drove back to Kampala where he broke the news to local media. (The NewVision and Red paper)

Orphaned at 2, he has gone through many life threatening trails such that some of these latest attempts by individuals, organizations or who ever, may not be of great value in shaping Oucha's mind- set to conquer difficult situations.

OUCHA SPEAKS

- After a week of silence, Patrick Donald Oucha has this to say. There are people out there using murder plots and implementation as a full time business. Let's not blame them but find ways/means of making them understand that the practice is not acceptable.
- This has been a move to remember. It is unbelievable that sections of our people are still acting sub humanly and engage in business sub consciously without feelings for others.
- It has shaken my soul for the better. I will never disengage from planned and future good health campaigns.
- My prayer is that the good Lord should not allow me to develop the ugly heart of revenge at any point in my life.
